Comments on David McInnes submission:

I agree with this sentiment. Dalraida is too obscure a reference for the constituency's name. If this gentleman's proposal of "North Antrim and Coleraine" was adopted at least it would not require the hearer to know about early Ulster/Argyllshire history to have an inkling of what the constituency covers. Glenshane, the other constituency name to deviate from the county/city/river placement, at least requires only basic geographic knowledge to picture.

I suggest the Commission use "North Antrim and Coleraine" as the name of this constituency.
